

A Thermos is a Must-have!

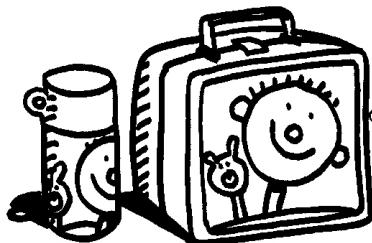

For smooth-running lunchtimes

There are many advantages to using Thermoses:

- More lunch variety
- Meals served at the right temperature
- No need to wait for the microwave—kids have more time to eat

Choosing the right Thermos

It's best to choose a model lined in stainless steel. Plastic linings do not lock in heat as well. Make sure to look for the label "double-wall vacuum insulation."

Write the student's name on the Thermos in permanent marker to make sure it comes back home!

Best foods for a Thermos:

- Soups
- Pasta with sauce
- Stews (beef stew, fricassee, ragouts, etc.)
- Chile con carne
- Chicken, egg or salmon sauces (like vol-au-vent sauce)
- Curries (Indian dishes with sauce)
- Sheppard's pie

Worst foods for a Thermos:

- Fish
- Vegetable stir-fry
- Rice
- Grilled meats
- Steamed vegetables

User guide for a perfect lunch

In the morning, before packing a lunch:

- Preheat the Thermos by filling it with boiling water, closing the lid and letting it sit for ten minutes.
- During that time, heat the food until it boils, i.e., until too hot to immediately eat.
- Empty the Thermos.
- Put the food into the Thermos and close it again.

At lunchtime, before eating:

- Stir the contents.
- Taste.

Maintenance and storage

Make sure your Thermos stays hygienic by washing it every day with soapy water.

Most Thermoses cannot go in the dishwasher.

As needed, soak Thermoses in water with baking soda (Cow Brand) to eliminate stubborn smells.

Store Thermoses with the top off.
